

About Us

David was originally from Otago but during his trip overseas in 1987 he met his English bride to be, Angela. They were married in 1990 and farmed in Otago together for 6 years. During this period they had two children, Georgia and Daniel.

Angela's parents were pioneers in U.K turf production and their business which was growing rapidly. Consequently they needed some help. Dave and Angela decided to bite the bullet and move back to the UK.

It wasn't long before they had been handed the reins and were running the turf farm. The business grew from strength to strength and is now the largest turf farm in Europe.

In 2016, having run the business for twenty years they decided a change of pace would be nice. Having purchased Spencer Lodge in 2013 they made the decision to return to New Zealand. By now they had three children and young Benjamin was part of the clan.
